BLANKED FIRE RETARDANT 950ºC 2000 x 900

Ref. 10081

The Solter Fire Blanket 950ºC 2000 x 900 is the ideal solution for welding, oxy-fuel cutting, and plasma cutting tasks, providing advanced thermal protection against sparks and molten metal. Made of fiberglass and silicon dioxide, asbestos-free, it offers resistance to water, chemical agents, and high temperatures. With a versatile design for horizontal or vertical use, it ensures safety in different environments. It complies with UNE EN ISO international standards, certifying its reliability and mechanical strength. Its 2000 x 900 mm dimension allows wide coverage, effectively protecting both the operator and the work environment.

Main Features:

✓ Advanced thermal protection: withstands extreme temperatures up to 950ºC, ideal for welding and cutting environments.

✓ Ultra-resistant material: made of fiberglass and silicon dioxide, asbestos-free and with non-slip properties.

✓ Regulatory compliance: certified under UNE EN ISO 15025 (limited flame spread) and EN ISO 13934-1 (tensile strength).

✓ Versatility in application: suitable for use in horizontal or vertical positions, adaptable to different work environments.

✓ Resistance to liquids and chemical agents: protects against water penetration and aggressive substances.

✓ Optimal dimensions: its size of 2000 x 900 mm provides wide and effective coverage.

✓ Guaranteed durability: designed to provide maximum safety and long service life under demanding conditions.
